

EVault Solution Design Services

Key Benefits

- Environment and needs analysis
- Gap analysis
- Solution architecture
- Deployment strategy

Are you struggling with how to get started on your data protection strategy? Are you wondering how to modify your existing solution to meet your changed business needs? EVault® Solution Design Services help you produce a data protection strategy that fits your business needs. Our consultants perform a comprehensive environment and needs assessment, a review of your existing solution, and a gap analysis between your requirements and your existing strategy to come up with a data protection solution architecture that meets your current requirements and can accommodate future growth. The following are the key deliverables provided as part of a Solution Design Service:

Environment and Needs Assessment

The first step is to thoroughly understand your environment and requirements for data protection. Our consultants review your hardware and network environment, internal management process for data protection, your compliance, business, and security requirements. This phase also includes a review of your current technology to ensure we understand how you do business today and how you want to modify your strategy to accommodate future change and growth.

Gap Analysis

Next, our consultants perform a gap analysis between your requirements and your existing strategy. We identify any disaster recovery exposure areas and analyze past recovery results.

Solution Architecture and Deployment Strategy

The final phase is a Solution Design Architecture document based on your business needs. This document includes all of the information uncovered in previous phases, the environment and needs assessment, and the gap analysis, as well as a recommended data protection design using EVault's products and services. For maximum flexibility, the document also includes recommendations for managing business change and growth. It concludes with a cost-benefit analysis of implementing the EVault solution. At the end of the service you have a document that provides a comprehensive view of a data protection strategy that can be used internally by your employees and externally by auditors and regulatory agencies to gain an understanding of your data protection practices.
